SECTION 3 PURPOSE

3.1. Teaching, research, service and support are critical missions of KU that require substantial infrastructure, including space. Space needs vary greatly both within and across departments and programs. Within the diversity of needs for space, there exist some overarching principles and goals regarding allocation. Application of these guiding principles across the university can help the different units as they work with central administration to efficiently use existing space or seek support for the creation or renovation of space.

3.2. The intended purpose of the Space Management policy document is to establish the most effective and efficient utilization of institutional spaces; as well as to raise awareness within the KU community regarding available and provided facilities.

3.3. This policy seeks to outline the management of the space and the physical or built environment of the university's three campuses.

The policy document aims to:

- Acknowledge that space is a limited resource;
- Recognize that different space and service requirements are needed for the various departments and programs;
- Promote responsibility and accountability for space assigned to the relevant department or program;
- Promote efficient use and distribution of space across departments and programs;
- Avoid or resolve conflicts of interest regarding space distribution; and
